

BIO – Councilmember Bob Woerner

Bob Woerner is a 36 year resident of Livermore and was appointed to the City Council in January of 2012. As a Councilmember, Bob represents the City of Livermore on intergovernmental agencies including the Livermore Amador Valley Transit Authority, Stopwaste.org, and the Downtown Subcommittee. Prior to his appointment to the City Council, Bob served on the Planning Commission.

Bob brings a wealth of professional experience to help govern the City. Bob came to Livermore in 1976 to work as a physicist in the Laser Program at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory.

After earning an MBA in 1984, Bob entered the business world. Over the past 28 years Bob has worked in the banking, telecommunications, software, business consulting and energy utility industries in a variety of management positions including leadership responsibilities for 1,300 employees and multi $100M budgets.

Bob is currently a Senior Director in Electric Operations at PG&E responsible for streamlining processes. His main focus is improving the interconnection process for distributed generation projects ranging from rooftop solar to multi-megawatt power plants.

Bob has two adult sons Phil and Steve who were both educated in the Livermore School System and had the benefit of the great quality of life offered by the City as they grew up. Bob is married to Nova Starling, a local artist.

Bob has an MBA in Finance from UC Berkeley and BS, MS and PhD degrees in Physics from MIT. He also served as a Captain in the Air Force Reserve.
